There is a law in Kansas which prevents a landlord turning a tenant on a farm out of doors for non-payment of rent during the winter.

England is in a crisis. The reverses in the South African war falls like a great calamity on the Empire; but England has met with greater reverses than those with the Boers. Buller and the Bulls are no match for the Boers.

The Louisville Courier, a Democrat newspaper, expresses the opinion that the Democratic party will be pretty certain to get on the wrong side of any issue that may arise, and that the only and to be attained will be proof that the party is still alive with its ability to blunder unimpaired.

Four years ago crowds of men could be seen every morning at nearly all of the factory gates in the country hoping for a chance to get a day's work at any kind of wages. How different now, when the factories are advertising for men to take the good wages that Republican prosperity has brought.

The Americans now hold more of Luzon than Spain ever held. The American troops have been welcomed by tribes that were always hostile to Spain, and never friendly to Aguinaldo. And yet there are newspapers that complain that the Americans are making no progress in the Luzon campaign.

The "Tua Tua," a plant native of Venezuela, is being introduced in Hawaii for the cure of leprosy. Uncle Sam's 1073 leper subjects in Hawaii will shortly be delivered from their terrible bondage and pitiable isolation through the aid of this medicinal shrub just discovered in Venezuela. The bark of the red mangrove bush is an efficient cure for leprosy in Cuba and other West Indies islands.

That staunch, long-whiskered defender of silver, the Hon. William M. Stewart, has returned to his first love. Despite all that he has said in the past and all that has happened since, and of the president's words in favor of the present gold standard, Stewart attended the Republican caucus in the senate, received the warmest of welcomes, and will be accorded recognition as a Republican in committee appointments. Just what reasons actuated the Nevadan in taking this course do not yet appear, but the administration champions in the upper house of congress are openly boasting that the once argentiferous Stewart is with them to stay.—Wichita Eagle.

THE CURRENCY BILL.

"The new currency bill, does not as some seem to think limit or cut out the circulation of greenbacks. It is true it is provided that, when they are all paid in gold they are to be retained in the treasury until released by the presentation of gold in exchange for them. The people prefer to use the greenbacks in ordinary business transactions, and there is no danger of their retirement. This bill does not go so far on this subject, as is recommended by the President in his annual message.

"Under the law the demand for gold will be limited to the foreign exchanges. This demand must be met under existing laws and the change would in no way affect the circulation of the greenbacks. The largest foreign demand for gold in any fiscal year was in 1893, when the net exports were $87,506,463.

"The present law limits the issue of subsidiary coins to $50,000,000, but we have in circulation about $76,000,000 in such coins. There is a great demand for an increase in these coins and this bill meets the demand. Beyond a doubt $150,000,000 of these coins could be put out, and when once in circulation they would stay there.

"Section 7 authorizes the issue and reissue of United States notes or treasury notes in denominations not less than one dollar, and provides that silver certificates hereafter issued or paid out, shall be in denominations only of one, two, and five dollars. This gives these certificates a definite place in our currency, and reserves to silver the entire circulating medium of the country in denominations of under ten dollars.

"The bill permits the national banks to issue circulation to the par value of bonds deposited for their security. This will increase the circulation at over 3,600 different points in this country. This would also allow an increase on nearly $30,000,000 on the bonds deposited on July 1, 1899. The bonds are abundant security at their par value, and there can be no reason why the increased circulation should not be allowed."

The currency bill passed the House Monday by a vote of 190 to 160.

The following Democrats voted with the Republicans for the bill: Clayton of New York, Denny of Maryland, Driggs of New York, Fitzgerald of New York, Ruppert of New York, Thayer of Massachusetts, and Wilson of New York.

The bill as passed by the House declares in plain terms that the gold dollar is the standard of value and that all obligations of the United States are redeemable in gold. It also provides that hereafter any paper currency redeemed in gold shall be set aside and paid out again only in exchange for gold, thus breaking the endless chain.

Philadelphia is selected as the place for holding the next National Republican Convention, which will be held June 19, 1900. The vote stood Chicago 24, Philadelphia 25. The west is strong and does not need the influence of a National convention, which arouses the sentiment in its proximity. There is prospect of great unanimity in the next National Republican convention. McKinley and Root seem to be the favorites for President and Vice President.

After January 1st, 1900, the clubbing rates of the Semi-Weekly Capital and GLOBE-REPUBLICAN will be increased to $1.75 a year. From now until January 1st the rate will be the same as heretofore, $1.50 a year. During the month of December we hope to renew many subscriptions at $1.50 a year. The increased cost of everything that enters into the making of a newspaper is the reason for the advance of 25 cents.

A Narrow Escape.

Thankful words written by Mrs. Ada E. Hart, of Groton, S. D. "Was taken with a bad cold which settled on my lungs; cough set in and finally terminated in Consumption. Four Doctors gave me up, saying I could live but a short time. I gave myself up to my Savior, determined if I could not stay with my friends on earth, I would meet my absent ones above. My husband was advised to get Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Cough and Colds. I gave it a trial took in all eight bottles. It has cured me and thank God, I am saved and now a well and healthy woman." Trial bottles free at W. F. Fine's drug store.

Mormons in Stafford County.

It is not generally known that in Southwestern Kansas the Mormons have a very large settlement, their headquarters being at St. John, in Stafford county. "Last Saturday," says a correspondent of the Harper County Republican, "something like sixty Mormon elders invaded Attica as suddenly as though they fell from the skies, or came up out of the earth. They came from the four quarters of the earth by twos, fours, and dozens, each wearing long tail Prince Albert coats and standing collars. They congregated around the Attica bank, and took possession of the G. A. R. hall, and proceeded to hold a district conference. They appeared intelligent, well fed and well clothed gentlemen. It is rumored that the elders contemplate moving their headquarters from St. John to Attica, and building a temple on the ruins of the Attica sugar mill."

"Going like Hot Cakes," is putting it mild when speaking of that sample line of New Fall Coats and Capes at 50 per cent less than regular prices, at the Bee Hive.

A Dream of Wealth.

"The big steam plow which has stood in Baldwin's lumber yard for several years," says the Garden City Imprint, "was put on board a car Tuesday and shipped to St. Louis. During the time it was confidently thought that this country was an agricultural paradise, this great engine was set to work on the upland plains turning under the buffalo sod for the planting of immense fields of wheat. The coyotes from adjoining knolls viewed the smoke-belching monster with wonder, and the strange thing was a curiosity to the inhabitants of many prairie dog towns; the rattlesnake sounded his warning, but his fangs were powerless to stop this creature of fire and iron, and his mad stroke but carried him under the wheels of this juggernaut of the plains. Golden dreams of wealth flitted through the minds of members of the syndicate and where rolled the waters of the Amazon it was thought to gather a harvest of thousands, and tens of thousands of bushels of wheat. But men propose and the natural conditions of the country disposes of the man. The water in the irrigating canal failed, the natural rainfall was insufficient, and the amount of grain raised was far below expectations. The bubble burst, the fire went out in the engine, and the engine and the projectors paid the cost. Where once the bright shares laid open the earth, now peacefully graze the beef steer and his sister, and where once the echoes were awakened by the yells of the cowboys. The golden dream of wealth has given away to the actual jingle of Uncle Sam's dollars."

That Throbbing Headache.

Would quickly leave you, if you used Dr. King's New Life Pills. Thousands of sufferers have proved their matchless merit for Sick and Nervous Headaches. They make pure blood and strong nerves and build up your health. Easy to take. Try them. Only 25 cents. Money back if not cured. Sold by W. F. Fine, Druggist.

An Atchinson woman has been told all her life that she needed a month's rest in the country, and simple country diet to restore her to health. She took the advice last month, and came back a physical wreck. She found that country people do not get home from parties till two in the morning, that they eat pie late at night, and live better than people in town. There should be an end to the talk of the perfect health obtained by living on a farm.—Globe.

An editor prints his paper to give his patrons the news of the day and for the money there is in it. He is presumed to know of what he writes and he generally does. When he writes as he does in the Leader Courier, Osceola Mills, Pa., without fee or hope of reward, that "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy acts magically, and we have found none better in our household. If you have a cough, try it," it may be accepted as an honest expression, worthy of credence. For sale by W. S. Amos.

Range Horses Decreasing.

The range horse is passing away. His tribe is not increasing in spite of the fact that he now finds a market whereas a few years ago he was practically worthless. During the depression range horses could not be sold for enough to pay for their transportation from breeder to buyer, and there was no encouragement for the former to increase or improve his herds. Many were killed for hides and flesh, and many perished through lack of feed, the sheep and cattle having invaded their grazing grounds and eaten up their forage. On the whole there was no material progress either in number or quality during these years. Now range horses are again finding an outlet; but the other products of the range are so profitable that the horse industry is not gaining ground. Beef and wool and mutton are engaging the attention of ranchmen. Ranches and pastures that were deserted a few years ago except by the wild horses are being occupied by the sheep and cattle men and their flocks and herds. Horses are being crowded back more and more, and, except in localities where conditions of water or climate or grazing make cattle and sheep ranching unprofitable, they will soon be driven out by them. This of course is a gradual process, but it is apparently a sure one. The range is not so plentiful as it used to be, it is all being occupied and more and more of it is being fenced and taken up by ranchmen. Horses are still bred, and always will be by some ranchmen, but the business is on the wane, and the vast herds of half-wild horses will be only a history before many years.—National Stockman and Farmer.

We look into a cradle and behold a male child. At the age of ten he is a noisy kid, with half the buttons of off his pants and an eye to meanness. At the age of fifteen he is a devil in a printshop; at twenty-five the publisher of a country newspaper, at the head of every enterprise calculated to improve the town or enrich the business thereof; at thirty-five he is an emaciated and worn-out man with holes in his pocket and a bald head; at the age of fifty he is a corpse in a cheap coffin and his only resources left behind are two cases of long primer type, a Washington handpress, and a subscription book with 500 delinquent subscribers, who line up and march past the coffin, saying: "He was a public spirited fellow, but he couldn't save anything."

The Thirty-first judicial district comprises Ford, Gray, Kiowa, Comanche, Meade and Clark counties. This district is one of the largest in the State.

"Hello; Mamie, is that you?" "It is." "Where did you get that pretty fascinator I saw you wear yesterday?" "At the Racket and Novelty Store." "Is that the best place to buy?" "The best of all."

The Cash Subscriber.

A Kansas editor whose heart had been made glad by the advent of a man who paid for his paper a year in advance, gives expression to his surcharged feelings as follows:

We sit in our den at midnight, when the clock is tickling away, and we think of the cash subscriber who has wandered in a day. We ponder o'er all the good things that a dollar-n-half will buy, and the joy which that brings to us, gushes from our pale blue eye. How often! oh how often, in the days that are to come, do we wish for the cash subscribers to hustle themselves and come. How often, oh how often, as the days go moseying past, we would long, if longing would help it, the cash down business would last. But alas, our heart is weary, likewise our pale blue eye, for few and far between meals, come to us such glad surprise. Yet we sit in our den at midnight and scratch with stubby pen, and long for the cash subscriber to wander in again; and we think mayhap some delinquent may want to witness our smile, and may happen in tomorrow and swell our little pile.

A SURE CURE FOR COUGHS.

Twenty-Five Years' Constant Use without a Failure.
The first sign of croup is hoarseness, and in a child subject to that disease it may be taken as a sure sign of the approach of an attack. Following this hoarseness is a peculiar rough cough. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough appears, it will prevent the attack. It is used in many thousands of homes in this broad land and never disappoints the anxious mothers. We have yet to learn of a single instance in which it has not proved effectual. No other preparation can show such a record—twenty-five years' constant use without a failure. For sale by W. S. Amos.

FOR THE FARM AND HOME.

...THE...

Semi-Weekly Capital.

EDITED BY GENERAL J. K. HUDSON.

The Semi-Weekly Capital for the coming year will be the best newspaper for Kansas readers ever published in the State. It will furnish, twice a week, at the cost of an ordinary weekly paper, a complete summary of the news of the world, and more Kansas news than all other papers combined. Editorially, it will be a sincere and earnest advocate of the progress and prosperity of Kansas and all the interests of her people. It will stand as an independent and outspoken advocate of Republican principles, for clean and honorable politics and for the enforcement of all laws.

A year's subscription to The Semi-Weekly Capital now will cover all the events leading up to the great presidential campaign of next year, and will be worth twice what it costs.

The publisher of this paper has made arrangements whereby he can make the following attractive offer:

Out in Kansas

lives a happy wife. She writes: "I have used Mother's Friend before two confinements. The last time I had twins, and was in labor only a few minutes. Suffered very little." The reason why does expectant mothers so much good is because it is an external liniment, to be applied upon the outside, where much of the strain comes. It helps because the pores of the skin readily absorb it, and it comes into direct contact with and is absorbed by the parts involved. Morning sickness is quickly banished, and nervousness is kept completely away. The sense of dread and foreboding is not experienced, even during labor itself. Confinement is short and almost without pain. Recovery is quick and sure. Best of all, Mother's Friend benefits the unborn just as much as the expectant mother, and when the little one comes it will be strong, lusty and healthy.

Druggists sell Mother's Friend for $1 a bottle. Send for free book on the subject, fully illustrated.
